Crossfield Village Council Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Crossfield Village Council was held on Monday last in the School House, all the councillors being present.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed, and the various accounts were offset.

The question of the cemetery was discussed at some length, and it was decided to ask for the co-operation of the plot owners and put this sacred place in decent shape.

The park next came up for discussion and it was decided to again let the land in lots for gardening purposes.

The balance of the land not taken up for gardening to be let to W. Fenwick to grow green feed on.

The secretary read report of the visit of the Provincial Sheriff's Officer.

It was decided to notify the Hotel Cafe restaurant that there was a nuisance behind their premises.

It was also decided to order the owner of the vacant house at the south of town to have the place fastened up, it being considered a menace to the town in case of fire as well as being a source of nuisance.

WILLOW SPRINGS RANCH MAKES GOOD AT BULL SALES

Frank Collicutt, took the championship in both the Alberta-bred and open classes; and the supremacy of his entries was so apparent that everyone at the ringside conceded him these coveted positions.

Mr. Collicutt deserves great credit for the way he has developed his stock and the others who staff his farm breeding

Herd and the administration of Herford breeders everywhere. There has always been a keen rivalry in the Herford camp and many outside herds have come up against the Willow Springs entries, but

Mr. Collicutt has, on more than one important occasion, shown that he has laid the right kind of foundation in the selection of his herd bulls and females, and that he knows how to handle them and possesses that consummate skill in mating which every breeder aims to develop.

Willow Springs Bookie, calved in 1917, was made a champion Herford bull. This was sired by a Herford bull called "The King" and was named by Frank Collicutt a grandson of Perfection Fairfax, one of the greatest breeding bulls in America. The calf's grand-dam was Sally, champion cow at the summer exhibition. Mr. Collicutt had 11 bulls entered.

Walters turned to the manager. "A man cannot be arrested without a warrant. I guess you understand you're not responsible for what's been happening these folks to lock me up."

"I don't know if it's quite legal or not," Foster admitted, addressing the manager. "But I'm not going to let you get away with it."

"Anyhow, you're not responsible, because we're going to take them out of your hands. Besides, you have such a staff just now, I don't think you could interfere."

"In a way, that's so," the manager doubtfully agreed. "I don't want a disturbance in my hotel; I've had enough."

"Well, well," said Walters, seeing he could expect no help from him. "But I'm not going to have this wretched Scotman in my room. If you don't take him out, I'll bring the furniture. I can do that, all right, though I'm not able to throw the bill out."

Foster went to the window, which was open. It was some distance from the ground and there was no pipe that would be a help in climbing down. But Walters had a mind to make a desperate try to escape.

"We'll take him away," he said, and beckoning Pete and the manager went out. He locked the door on the other side and returned: "I'll bring up a comfortable chair, a blanket and a packet of tobacco. If there's any trouble, you can state that you acted on compulsion and we'll leave you out of it. You might find it a size and hold a criminal when you catch him in the act. Stop here until I release you. Pete."

Pete went to the others, went to the dining room. After dinner Foster took his turn on watch, but by and by Pete reappeared, holding the page by the arm. He signed to Foster who went down the passage to meet him.

"I thought I'd maybe better ask," he took round the back of the house and found Haddie acauth the window, he said. "He had a bit of paper in his hand."

Peter, who told him to watch Waller's door, frowned at the lad. "I reckon you'd sooner keep out of jail."

"Sure," said the lad, with an effort at carelessness; "I'm not going to get in."

"Well," said Foster grimly, "you're taking steep chances just now. The police will be here tomorrow and there'll be trouble if they know you're to help their prisoner escape. Where's the telegram he threw you down?"

"It wasn't a telegram."

"The lad hesitated, but let him have the crumpled envelope. "I was to give it to you on the train," he said.

Foster opened the envelope, which was addressed to Telford at the mining town. The letter was written and the postscript added after studying it with knitted brows he thought he understood its purport.

"How much were you to get for me?" he asked.

"Mr. Walter threw me three dollars. I allow I'd have to give some, though I didn't see why you shouldn't collect the balance."

"That means you can keep the money, but as the brakeman's not allowed to carry letters, I'll get a new envelop."

The boy went off, looking relieved.

Foster followed him to his chair at Waller's door. On the veranda he thought he would hear something of the gang on the morrow, and if his suspicions were correct, looked forward to a profitable evening. The westbound freight had not passed yet and if it came soon, should reach the mining town before the morning. Foster lighted his pipe, wrapped the blanket round his legs, and opened a book he had brought.

Next day two telegrams arrived in a single envelope and took Walters away. Lawrence was compelled to go with them, and although but little disturbance was made, Foster inferred that the agent who sent them knew about the matter. He had gone for regretting this, and kept a close watch on the page whose duties were to be done. He had a mind to wander about the building and see what was going on. He expected to hear something when the train from the coast arrived, but took care to be outside when the express from Montreal was due. He had a suspicion that Daly had gone up the line.

The west-bound train came first, and Foster, who had sent Pete to the station, sat in the veranda, where he could see anybody who entered the building. He saw the train come again, but nobody came up the road, and after a time Pete returned. Three passengers had got down, but one of them, like a tramp, had taken the trail to a settlement some distance off. Pete, however, did not know Daly, and Foster was not satisfied. He had a mind to go to the bush ranchers cheap, as the bush ranchers were. Going out, he walked through the bushes and grew cold up to the bone of the body. After all, Daly might try to find out something from one of the servants before coming to the front entrance.

The light had sunk behind the range and the light was dim among the pines. The air was keen and a bitter wind that came down the valley in winter had a sharp bite. The bushes screamed while the roar of the river thrashed among the stately trunks. This was in Foster's favor, because he had made his way through fallen branches and through the undergrowth, and wanted to do so without being heard. He was a good hunter and bushman, and did not think there was much risk of being seen.

For a time he heard nothing, suspicious as he began to feel keen dissatisfaction with himself. Waller's message would bring Daly to his rescue, but it looked as if he had not done so. Then as he stood near the entrance, he heard a faint noise. Not far off, a narrow trail led through the bushes to the back of the hotel, and he followed it.

It was shadowy all around him, but where the trees grew farther apart their tall straight trunks cut against the dark shadows of the bushes.

The noise had stopped, but he could see anybody who crossed the nearest opening and waited, tense and highly strung. Then he heard a faint noise from the hotel, and an indistinct object emerged from the gloom. It was a man, taking some care to move quietly. When he moved, Foster saw that he was a lad, a bushy-haired boy who had a gun. The noise had stopped, but he could see anybody who crossed the nearest opening and waited, tense and highly strung. Then he heard a faint noise from the hotel, and an indistinct object emerged from the gloom. It was a man, taking some care to move quietly. When he moved, Foster saw that he was a lad, a bushy-haired boy who had a gun.

The boy, who was wearing an old skin coat, stopped and looked around, and Foster saw his face. It was Daly, and he seemed uncertain if the boy was friend or foe.

"I reckon you'd sooner keep out of jail."

"Sure," said the lad, with an effort at carelessness; "I'm not going to get in."

"Well," said Foster grimly, "you're take no use in following the other after this, although he did not feel beaten yet. Daly, no doubt, hoped to get away by the Montreal express, but he would lie in the bush until the last moment.

Foster went back to the hotel for Peter, and leaving a note for Lawrence, dressed and started on his journey. He took the road to the station. On reaching a bend, however, he plunged into the wood and made his way around the hill, which he and Pete crept in the grouch of the woods, and only came into the open for a few yards near the agent's shack. Here he sat down behind a big water tank and Foster followed him when he had reached the station without being noticed; they would find Daly when he got on board the train, and if he had seen him, he'd cut off his best chance of escape.

It was nearly dark and very cold, but Foster was glad the train was late. By and by he got up and lit his pipe, though he was careful how he held the match. If Daly was hiding near, he did not want to see his face, but the latter could not enter anybody who might be on his track to smoke. Strolling carelessly round the front of the shack, Foster opened the door and asked the agent: "Are you going to stop the eastbound?"

"Ah," said Foster, "I expect we can get tickets on board, but if you don't mind, we'll wait in here. It's freezing pretty fierce."

Soviet Clerks For Bankers

Budapest Clerks Russian Method of Misrule

Vienna.—Following the practice put into effect by the Russian government at Moscow, bank presidents in Budapest have become mere figureheads, while soviet clerks administer the business.

Rents are no longer paid to landlords, but to the general committee, which is represented by the janitors.

The stores have been nationalized and the heads of factories have been replaced by those elec-tively chosen by the workers.

The banking business is being handicapped under the new regulations.

No one is allowed to draw out more than $100, even in salaries.

Permit Entry of Hindoo Families

Ottawa.—It is understood that an order in council has been passed under which the wives and families of Hindoos now resident in British Columbia will be admitted to Canada.

It is also understood that other privileges are extended to the Hindoos.

In the Springtime

It's just at this time of the year that we need something taken from Nature to restore the vital forces.

People get sick because they go away from Nature, and the only way to get well is to go back. Something grows out of the ground in the form of vegetation to cure almost every ill. Some of these vegetable growths are understood by man, and some are not. Animals, it would seem, know what to do when they are sick better than men and women. Observers have noted that a sick horse, dog or cat will stop eating food and seek out some vegetable growth in the field or yard, which, when found and eaten, often restores appetite and health. Haven't you seen these animals do this very thing yourself?

Dr. Pierce of Buffalo, N. Y., long since found herbs and roots provided by Nature to overcome constipation, by the very thing you need—right now.

Aeroplanes for Czechoslovakia

Washington.—The United States has sold to the Czechoslovak military authorities aeroplanes and aero-plane equipment to the value of $1,000,000. The number of machines was not made public, but they were valued at $319,000. A few months ago Colonel Hurban bought six planes for the use of the Czechoslovak troops in Siberia, and they were shipped to Vladivostok.

Rumania Will Get Credit

London.—Ruter learns that Canada has signed an agreement establishing a credit with Rumania, in order that the latter may purchase from Canada essential materials and manufac-tures for reconstruction work.

It is understood Canada will supply Rumania with seed grain and agricultural implements.

Between his religion and pleasure it is always the latter that interferes with a man's business.

Britain Will Exact Utmost Farthing

London.—In the house of commons, the government was subject to a great deal of criticism concerning the amount of indemnity which Germany is to be asked to pay.

Col. Lowther, Unionist, declared that the delegates to the peace conference in Paris need to be reminded that a majority of the members of the house of commons solemnly had pledged themselves to exact the utmost farthing from the Germans. He said he hoped Great Britain was not going to let the United States and having before President Wilson, who could philosophically bear every country's financial embarrassment but his own.

Andrew Bonar Law, government leader in the house, in the course of a long reply, announced that no decision had yet been reached as to the amount to be demanded from Germany. It was an entire mistake, he added, to assume that the views of the British government had been influenced in the desire to obtain every thing Germany was able to pay by any action on the part of the president of the United States.

"It would be unfair to that great country," Mr. Bonar Law said, "to suggest that our action had thus been influenced."

LISTEN TO THIS! SAYS CORNS LIFT RIGHT OUT NOW

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an early death from lockjaw or blood poison must now tell your Clinton authority to use a drug called free-zone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn, the sorcery is lifted. You see, some of the corn root and all, lifts out with the fingers. It is a sticky ether compound which dries the corns, it is applied in simply shooting them without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. It is claimed that a quarter of a ounce of free-zone will remove all but any of the drug stores, but is sufficient to rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or callus.

You are right, we say, that cutting at a corn is a suicidal habit.

Huns Pay Gold for Food

Paris.—The French foreign office was advised that $55,000,000 in gold was deposited by the Germans in the Belgian National Bank at Brussels. The gold is collateral for the payment of foodstuffs which the allies are permitting to enter Germany.

HAD-WEAK and FAINTING SPELLS

These feelings of faintness, those weak "all gone" sinking sensations, which come over some people from time to time, are warnings that must not be disregarded.

They mean an extremely weakened condition of the heart and a disordered nervous system.

When this symptom is in this condition there is no time for delay. One fainting spell may be recovered from —will the next? One dizzy spell may be.

Those who are wise will start taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, before they become deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and懦弱的 nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Miss Mary McCoy, Algoma Mills, Ont., writes:—"I was awfully troubled with fainting spells, became deep rooted and perhaps hopeless.

They will act directly on the disordered heart and懦弱的 nervous system and restore them to full strength and vigor.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50¢ per box, all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Yellow Peril

Captain Martin Smith Says Japanese Will Not Tolerate Dis- crimination

Ottawa.—"We have finished the fight over yonder, but this has not by any means settled the world problem," asserted Captain Martin Smith of Vancouver, who is stopping in Ottawa for a few days on his way home. "Canada has to face, as she never has before, the yellow peril," he continued. "The Japanese is a high spirited man and if discriminated against, he feels slighted."

Captain Smith held out fears that the world may be in the throes of a death struggle between the white and yellow race, comprising the Japanese, Chinese and possibly other oriental nations, clash for world supremacy.

Farm Architecture and Building

A SEVEN ROOM HOUSE

Critical Conditions Still Exist

Greater Factory and Farm Production Necessary to Stabilize and Give Adequate Returns to Capital and Labor.

Anxiety as to the building program for the West is being keenly felt, as at present, there is great depression in industrial circles. Factories cannot operate without orders, and they can obtain orders for future delivery until they can guarantee production at a price that the conditions will warrant, and which will not overbear current prices at the time of delivery. Builders cannot go ahead without contracts—raw materials must be procured at reasonable prices, labor schedules must be ascertained and a thousand and one things that enter into the cost of manufacturing must be carefully investigated before business will resume its normal conditions.

The present labor conditions are not helping matters along, but they are delaying the resumption of business; for that most important item of the cost of production is an unstable and doubtful quantity. Many men are granting higher wages, which means little to them as long as their mill is not running, but when they do start, labor costs must be fixed at least for a reasonable period, as a basis of cost finding.

It is not so much a question of price as it is of stability; for no manufacturer will contract his product at a price which is liable to be exceeded in the cost of production before that contract is completed.

Such are the conditions in many lines of business. Others are not so seriously affected, just at present, but they, too, will sooner or later be compelled to fix their costs.

Our wealth is in the land, forest, mines, water powers and other resources of nature, and in the big plants, buildings, machines, railway and equipment of every kind that

The attractive house shown here will have a strong appeal for those intending home builders whose taste demands an attractive exterior combined with a convenient and useful interior layout. The architect has shown frame construction for the exterior walls, though stucco or a stucco and brick combination would prove very effective.

The writer emphasizes the importance of the privileges of individuality. If the prospective home builders are to enjoy to the extent possible the anticipation of the completed home and are to occupy the home they have built with the satisfaction they deserve.

There are certain limitations placed on the free exercise of individuality. The number of persons comprising the family dictates the number of bedrooms. The available frontage of the property on which the home is to be built dictates the lateral dimensions of the dwelling. Forty feet of available frontage will accommodate this house.

Attention may well be called to the details made for convenience. In the kitchen there is a large double sink, the kitchen cabinet. A built-in cabinet for a ready-made meal will prove of real advantage to the housewife. The pantry located between the kitchen and dining room is lighted and of a size that, while not using space extravagantly, is not cramped. The large, well-lighted living room is a feature of this home. Those interested will notice the fireplace and appreciate it. The large bathroom, the sewing room and the closet space are features of the upper floor.

Capital has furnished for converting these resources into the commodities of trade and distributing them to the consumer, said Mr. Roland. Capital can do nothing without labor—neither can labor develop this wealth without capital. This must be used together and it's up to Canada to get and keep all these forces of production in action, if we can expect to pay our war pledges. Manufacturers, merchants, financial institutions and business generally, are studying on a large scale, economy and greater efficiency. Efficiency is as necessary on the farm as it is in the factory, but the unsettled political situation is such that the farmer is really giving more study to the tariff and California winters, than he is to efficiency on the farm.

What the West really needs is 40 billion bushels of oats instead of 20–100 bushels of oats instead of 50–90 head of cattle to the square mile instead of 2–100 hogs to the square mile instead of 1, and ten times as much butter, eggs, and poultry products. At present, greater production all round and a greater Canadian spirit for using goods made by Canadian labor, will yet be the solution of unemployment and this will increase national prosperity to that point where everybody will be making a reasonable investment in labor and capital. A determined policy of protection and expansion should be voted at once, and if Canada's tariff is high or low in spots, and economic and independent survey of those particular features should be carried out and a satisfactory adjustment based on facts, be arrived at by all interested concerned. I doubt if there are many offices in the West through which has passed a greater volume of correspondence and comment on this subject than this office, said Mr. Roland, and I venture to say that is going to effect the revenues of the country so much, should be put through by a wave of the hand at this critical period in our history.

Germany Must Accept Terms

Allies Expect to Be Bluffed Until Last Minute

COBLENZ.—As the time for presenting the peace terms to Germany approaches the important question arises as to what attitude Germany will take.

In the present German government sufficiently unable to carry out the enforced terms of peace? Whether Germany will accept the terms regardless of their severity is not considered a question open to discussion. Germany will be obliged to accept though no one doubts but that she will haggle and bluff until the last minute just as she did in the armistice negotiations when Marshal Foch pulled out his watch and said: "Gentlemen, my train leaves in five minutes and if the agreement is not signed before that time the war will continue." It is expected that the same tactics will be followed when the peace terms are presented to the so-called central powers.

Spirit of the Times

LONDON.—The allegorical figure of Columbia, representing the United States, is to supplant that of Germany and clasp the hand of Britannia in the decoration of the British foreign office in Downing street.

Report is Erroneous

Sir Robert Not Considering Position of Ambassador at Washington

Ottawa.—Sir Thomas White, in a statement made from time to time press despatches from abroad had associated erroneously the name of Sir Robert Borden with the position of British ambassador at Washington.

The matter had been brought to the attention of the prime minister, he said, and the following cable had been received from Sir Robert: "You are authorized to state publicly that I am not considering the position of British ambassador at Washington and it is my intention to return to Canada and resume my duties as prime minister as soon as my work with the conference will permit."

Serious Reverse for Reds

LONDON.—Reuter's leaflet in messages from Omsk, Russia, that General Krichak's army pierced the enemy's front on a thirty-mile breadth on March 11, and advanced nearly二十里 along the right bank of the Kama river between the already captured towns of Olschanik and Osso. The red army is being pursued in three directions, abandoning large quantities of war stores. A large number of men were taken prisoner and three Bolshevik regiments were annihilated. The enemy's situation is precarious.

Claim Massacred Jews Helped Reds

NEW YORK.—Thousands of Jews were slaughtered in a pogrom in Buenos Ayres on January 9, according to a statement issued here by the Zionist organization of America, quoting news it has received from the Argentine capital.

According to this report, a "White Guard" was organized there, following a rumor that strikes in that city were the beginning of a Bolshevik revolution incited by the Jews.

Of the fifteen lines comprising the system of Chinese government called "White Guards" only one was built by Chinese themselves.

Important Invention

New Device for Cleaning and Grading Grain

The provincial and Dominion governments working in the interest of the agriculture classes, and fully aware of the facts and the importance of producing grain of the highest possible grade, have been for years unceasing in their efforts to educate the farmer in the proper methods for the attainment of this object, and the keynote of all their instructions is now and always has been—"Sow Clean Seeds." But since a very large percentage of the grain has become mixed and foul, the problem that farmers are up against, is how to procure this clean seed at a reasonable price.

The miller and large grain dealer, by installation of elaborate and expensive machinery, are able to clean their grain, but this equipment is beyond the means of the average farmer. The seed specialist, too, may hand-pick his grain. But this again is out of the question where hundreds of thousands of bushels are required for seed.

The production of a machine that will separate one particular kind of grain from another and one particular kind of grain from all kinds of noxious weeds will make all the separation necessary to absolutely insure clean grain, no matter how dirty, and that will also grade the seed, has been recently invented by Wm. M. Ferguson. The machine is now being manufactured in Winnipeg and the industry bids fair to be an important one for Western Canada.

HELP WANTED!

Keep away from the flame of the candle if you don't want your wings singed, is a proverb as old as the hills. So old we have almost forgotten to apply it to ourselves. In every community men and women are imitating the moths. How many times have we been singed by the fascination of that long distance "bargain"? And how many times have we come back, and back again, to the flame? How much money is lost each year to this community by this same singeing process? The flame of the candle mounts higher. The moths crowd closer and closer to the flame. It is our business to put that flame out. Wanted—A few men and women in our community to apply the snuffer.

Mother and Son Are Both Grateful

For the Good Dodd's Kidney Pills Did Them

Cured Mrs. Larson's Son's Back, and Put an End to Her Son's Sleepless Nights.
Bergland, Ont., April 7. (Special) — I am glad to have the opportunity to give fair credit to Dr. Dodd's Kidney Pills, for the good they did me, and also my family." Says Mrs. John S. Larson, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place. "We have been using them as a family remedy for some back."

"At the time I ordered Dr. Dodd's Kidney Pills I did it more for a fancy than from any belief in their curing value."

"But I was all in from an aching back, I caught a bad cold and settled on the Kidneys so that I could not sleep, and I could not work."

"When I stooped forward my back so sore that I had to brace up my body, putting my hands under my knees, and I could hardly rise up again."

After taking two boxes of Dr. Dodd's Kidney Pills the pain decreased so fast, and my back is fairly good unless I overwork."

"Also one of my young sons had dysentery, which he had to go up every half hour during the night. Dr. Dodd's Kidney Pill cured him, and now he can sleep all night."

"I am very grateful to Dr. Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have been curing kidney ills for over twenty-five years. Ask your neighbors about them.

Minard's Liniment Relieves Neuralgia

Mine Sweeping Off New Zealand

One of Tobacco's Victims

Tired Camels Resemble Journey After Having a Smoke

Soldiers from the east are telling some curious stories of camels' love for tobacco. Drowned rives and camels are passionately addicted to the weed and can be made to do almost anything under its influence.

The driver carries a triangular piece of wood which is pierced at one point like a cigar holder. This is inserted in the beast's mouth, the cigar being then lit and pressed into the hole.

The camel immediately closes its eyes and puffs away through his mouth and nostrils. The cigar is then removed. It seems to think it might enjoy the experience. Furthermore, the nicotine appears to exercise a stimulating and refreshing effect upon the animal, so that though ready, to all appearances, to drop from fatigue before its smoke, it will hold on for many more miles after it.

Miller's Worm Powders are completely in themselves. They not only drive worms from the system, but repair the damage that worms cause and so invigorate the body, restoring the energy to the system from the disorders of the digestion that are the result of the work of these parasitic intruders. They do their work thoroughly and strength and soundness follow their use.

Value of Canadian Farms

General News

It is a curious fact and one that has never been explained that civilization goes the way of the war. In the east, man has moved westward. Westward he has travelled since, carrying the torch of progress in his hand.

The history of China dates back to thousands of years before human footmarks began to appear in Britain. From Asia civilization spread westwards, travelling right across Europe, and thence to America. To-day Europe, instead of absorbing the spirituality of her nearest neighbor, is touched by the westward flow, and is raising her head.

The possession of domesticated animals in Asia is equally such as horses, dogs, mules, donkeys, sheep, goats, honey-bees, chickens, ducks, etc., and this alone shows that domestic man had his first kingdom in Asia. Yet it is strange that the countries with the longest human histories are to-day the least advanced.

A newly arrived British refugee from Russia interviewed by Reuters agency, mentioned that 40 British naval and military prisoners captured on the north Russian front, are at present captive in Moscow. The officers are imprisoned in small cells, but the men are allowed to circulate in the town and even to visit British residents. They are better fed and clothed than the other prisoners. The Bolshevik evidently are striving to win the men over, but up to now there has been no signs of success.

It may be surprising to many persons to learn that the first organized attempt to establish oil wells in the United Kingdom was launched only three weeks before the cessation of hostilities. In mid-October drilling was begun on the estate of Lord Harrington near the village of Hardstoft, six miles from Chesterfield. Other operations were expected to be started early in November in the same locality. It was reported that American drillers with machinery were ready to begin work at seven different sites selected near Chesterfield, and that three additional locations were being sought.

The Lady and the Gleam

Once upon a time there was a Lady. This is a true story and the lady never originated a tall tale. She always believed what she was told and was all on the pony. She followed the Gleam, if you want to talk highbrow.

She heard that it was wonderful how many Cents you would have if you Kept Every One that came your way and put it into a Jug—all there was not even Standing Room Inside. She believed the tale and hunted up a Jug. Then she Pestered the life out of Shopkeepers and curled many grey hairs around her temples in the effort to make all her Change come back in pennies. What did you say?

Honest? Of course! Everything's honest in Love and War.

Well, the Jug became Full, instead of empty. And where did the gleam lead the lady? You'd never guess! Straight across the Continent! She started in Boston and Gleamed all the way to California on that Jug full of Pennies. Honest; she did!

What a lady has done another can Gleam. Just think of the possibilities in Thrift Stamps
